This demonstration residence in Limassol, Cyprus offers 145 m², three bedrooms and two bathrooms, with a private terrace. The asking price in this fictional example is €450,000.

The supplied photographs present a connected sequence from the kitchen, through the doorway and into the living area. Light tones and large windows give the photographed spaces a calm, open appearance. The images help communicate the visual character of the residence; they do not establish its measurements, specifications or legal status.

The stated room count, floor area and terrace are supplied example facts. An energy rating, legal status and other details remain to be confirmed before any real listing is published. Contact the agency to discuss the property information and arrange a viewing. This
